MOUNTAIN, SEA AND CITY VIEWED BY THE VISITORS.
During Reception at the Chamber of Commerce a Great Success—Officers of the Supreme Lodge Expected to Arrive Today—Many Departing.
All of the Knights of Pythias, who were scheduled to visit Los Angeles, arrived in the city yesterday except the members of the Supreme Lodge who will probably arrive from San Francisco today. A few left for the North on the morning train and a large number will arrive today and tomorrow. The reception committee is now preparing to receive the visitors and the members of the lodge who will be here. The trip scheduled yesterday for the members of the lodge was a tour of the city and the surrounding country. The members of the lodge were met at the hotel and taken to the beach, but the Pythians were not to be bound by any rules and regulations. They took a walk on the beach and then to the hotel. On Monday night he was taken to his room, and it was supposed that he had gone to bed, but Tuesday morning a discovery was made. This time he was found in the HENRY J. HALL.

The police department was called to the scene and every possible step taken to locate the missing man. No trace of the man was discovered and he completely disappeared under the ground.

The most plausible theory was that the man was killed by prearrangement as was the case in the other two cases.

GETTING RID OF ITS DEBT.

Saratoga Association a Money-earner.

Enormous Dealings for the Bookmakers.

San Francisco Shut Out at Ball—Results of the Eastern Races.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.

SARATOGA, Aug. 20.—(Exclusive) The Saratoga Association today started turning about by declaring the Saratoga association would be out of debt in ten days. August 4, its liabilities were $250,000. So far this season, the Saratoga association has earned an average of $50,000 a week. This represents enormous receipts from the Western Union Telegraph Company for room service throughout the United States, daily news, bookmakers and admission money, after the running expenses are deducted.

Next Saturday, the wheels of the "big" racing mill will have ground out $100,000, or $1000 more than the amount required to wipe off the indebtedness incurred in the creation of a new Saratoga. On a big state day, or a pleasant Saturday afternoon, an average of $10,000 flows into the coffers provided over by Treasurer Miller. Last Saturday, for instance, 15,000 people passed through the turn-styles. That meant in the neighborhood of $10,000 in admissions.

No better illustration of the magnitude of the game here is available than Joe Ullman's statement of his daily operations. He handles over $125,000 a day, winning or losing on an average $15,000. In the entire ring, over $2,500,000 is generally handled. With clear racing days, during the final week, the association will clear up about $50,000, and have a surplus, after paying its debt, and a 5 per cent. dividend to stockholders.

The forfeit in Hynd's hands is to stand for sixty days.

The battle, which is to be for the middleweight championship of the world, is to carry a side bet of $5000 if the Gardner party so elects.

CORSETS ARE INEVITABLE.

Very possibly it would be better if no one ever resorted to any such means to make a figure. In that case probably fashion would conform to the corsetless condition. But she is a long way from doing that yet, and although one may not wish to echo Lady Tashie and say that it is as well to be dead as to be out of the fashion, yet while women are women they will cling to prevailing modes, and few will be found strong-minded enough to start out and found a school of dress of their own. The women who have done this have not succeeded in rendering themselves sufficiently attractive to encourage imitation.

ADVANTAGES TO STOUT WOMEN.
It is all very well for slender young women or thin old women to lay aside corsets. They can afford to take high moral grounds on the subject. They can give up what they believe to be a pernicious article of apparel and yet appear well. With the stout woman, whether young or old, it is not so. It is all she can do to make herself comparatively attractive. Without a corset her figure would be a study in the line of the middle-aged woman, who is a spectacle to provoke the jeers of the irreverent. The pity of the stout woman is that she is not a stout woman. She means to do nothing of the sort. If you pin her down to it the chances are even that she would own up that she would rather have the chances of doing herself a little harm than feel that she was a fright.

HOW TO LACE THE CORSET.
This cannot be done with a straight-front corset. If a woman expects to get the best results from it, at least five minutes must be allowed every morning for putting on the corset. The side garters must be fastened to the corset. It must be laced from the top and the bottom to the middle, leaving enough to pull in the middle and being tied in front. Laces much longer than those usually employed must be purchased. These must be laced in the back so that the corset hangs upon the figure. The bottom hooks in front must be clasped first. Then the corset will become more secure. The woman's shoulders are broadened, and with the deep breathing there can never be a new fashion that there will not be a program to carry it to an extreme. As a consequence we see women who have pushed their corsets to the limit, and whose figures are as great a caricature as were those they sported in the old days. But these extremes should not disgust sensible persons. There is no reason why they should not avoid such faults and get from the corset in its present form all the good they desire. For those who know how to make use of it, MUST RECLINCE PERIODICALLY.

A word with regard to the cleanliness of corsets. Women who abhor untidiness in other respects will often wear a corset until it has become a veritable cesspool. It is a condition that is positively offensive. There is no excuse for this. In the first place, a corset should always be changed at night. It should not be rolled up when it is taken off, but while it is warm from the body the bones should be straightened and the corset spread flat, inside out, in a current of fresh air. In this way they can be kept clean and sweet for a long time. When it is finally dirty—not dirty enough to throw, perhaps, if the corset is a toilet and white silk, but dirty enough to be sent to the cleaners. A corset cannot be washed without injuring the shape and the lace, and thus making it unsatisfactory. A corset that is cleaned for 50 cents, and the money is well invested.

NEW STYLES BEST FOR EXERCISE.
Such a corset, put on according to the above directions, will give an agreeable figure. It is claimed by the women who go in for athletics that the new style corset makes their exercises, such as golf, tennis and other sports, easier than ever before. There are many women who do not indulge in this sort of thing, but women all over the country are using nerve and muscle in housework and child tending, and wearing themselves out because they are doing it improperly corseted. To them the straight-front corset, if worn in the way, ought to grant years of life and relief immeasurable.

FRACTURES MADE IN "PUSH" SLATE.

Anti-Gage Man Named for Assembly in Governor's Own District. County Convention's Second Day.

FOR Sheriff—Will A. White.
Clerk—Charles G. Keyes.
Auditor—Herbert G. Dow.
Recorder—Calvin Hartwell.
State Senator:
Thirty-eighth District—C. W. Pendleton.
Assemblymen:
Sixty-seventh District—J. A. Goodrich.
Sixty-eighth District—W. A. Johnston.
Sixty-ninth District—E. W. Camp.
Seventy-first District—P. A. Stanton.
Seventy-second District—H. S. G. McCartney.
Seventy-third District—J. P. Transue.
Seventy-fourth District—F. W. Houser.
Seventy-fifth District—Henry E. Carter.

CANDIDATES named above, selected at the second day's session of the Republican County Convention, indicated three breaks in the "push" slate, which was published in the Times of Tuesday. These came in the nomination of Will A. White instead of D. O. Freeman for Sheriff.

There were surprises for both sides in the nominations of Senator and Assemblymen in the district conventions held during the day.

With the machinery of the convention in good running order, there was little delay in getting down to business yesterday morning. Most of the delegates and hundreds of spectators were in the hall an hour or more before 10 o'clock, the time set for the opening, and the horde of candidates apparently had not gone to bed the night before, as they were on the sidewalks and in the convention hall several hours in advance of the opening.

The opening call for nominations for Sheriff started a spirited contest among six candidates for the place, but the first ballot clearly indicated that the fight was between Hammett and White, and on the third ballot the nomination went to White.

Hammett's defeat was another thorn in the side of Judge J. W. McKimley, who placed the present Sheriff in nomination for a second term.

McKimley explained that he was not a delegate in the convention, but the voters of his precinct had forced him to "go way back and sidown."

The contest over the Clerkship at the afternoon session was lively, but was without particular incident. Lester Robinson making an excellent showing, but finally capitulating to his nearest opponent, C. G. Keyes.

The nominations of Auditor and Recorder in the evening were unmarked by excitement.

The liveliest fight of the day was during the afternoon, when an attempt was made to foist a "union-label" resolution on the convention. This resolution was voted down by the convention, but was declared carried later in a modified form, without the decision of the chair was not accepted with good grace by the delegates.

The contests for Senator in the Thirty-eighth District, and for Assemblymen in eight of the Assembly districts, were spirited, and resulted in the nomination of "Corney" Pendleton for Senator, and three anti-Gage and five Gage men for Assemblymen.

In the Assembly fight the most notable results were in the Governor's home district, the Sixty-ninth, where an anti-Gage Assemblyman, E. W. Camp, was nominated; in the Sixty-eighth, where the "push" candidate, Assemblyman Broughton, was defeated by W. A. Johnston of San Dimas; in the Seventy-fifth, where Dr. H. A. Lamb was defeated by the "push" favorite, Assemblyman H. E. Carter; in the Seventy-first, where P. A. Stanton, machine worker, was victorious over Charles Udell, and in the Thirty-eighth Senators District, where the notorious "Corney" Pendleton, barber statesman, defeated Walter P. Haas, former City Attorney for Los Angeles.

Delegates from Senatorial District Thirty-eighth assembled in the annex of Haas's Pavilion at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The Thirty-eighth worked fast under the direction of Chairman W. P. Jeffries, and nominations were made only for their brevity. Successively "Tom" Lewis, "Corney" Pendleton and Walter Haas were placed in nomination before the body.

O. P. Conway and Harry Leland were named as secretaries, but Mr. Leland was not present, and Mr. Conway acted alone.

Mr. Jeffries proceeded to the call of roll by precincts, and the ballot was taken in seven minutes. It resulted in a failure to nominate, also in much surprise to "Tom" Lewis, who had confidently figured on a good representation in the voting. He got 16 votes with 54 necessary for a choice.

Haas fell short of the vote he anticipated, getting only 34 votes, and "Corney" Pendleton, who had another ballot in getting recognition. The chair knew there was one lost lamb in this convention, and he had some difficulty in getting recognition. The chair knew there was one lost lamb in this convention, and he had some difficulty in getting recognition.

that the operations of "push" bribery were ineffective in Pomona and other parts of the Sixty-eighth District.

THE GOVERNOR'S OWN. The nomination of an Assemblyman from the Sixty-ninth District brought grief to the "push."

An anti-Gage Assemblyman was nominated from the Governor's home district, the honor going to E. W. Camp, Esq., of Sierra Madre, an attorney of repute, whose office is in Los Angeles and who is a member of the Republican County Central Committee.

Though the Burns-Gage machine had succeeded in electing eight of the eleven State delegates from that district, it was unable to nominate an Assemblyman who wore the collar, and the "push" leaders in that district came in for a round scoring last night from the Parker-Brown managers.

The Assembly district convention was held at the close of the afternoon session of the general convention yesterday with the entire eighty-eight delegates represented in person or by proxy.

The district includes six precincts in Los Angeles city, Long Beach, Alhambra, Artesia, Cerritos, Clearwater, Downey, Fruitland, Lamanda, North Pasadena, Norwalk, San Gabriel, Sierra Madre, South Pasadena and Terminal.

Dr. L. A. Pierce of Long Beach was chairman of the convention and Leo Longley of South Pasadena, secretary. Three nominations were made: E. W. Camp by W. H. Wright; Robert E. Wirtzsch by W. J. Varrel, and G. W. Glover, Jr., of South Pasadena by Dr. Henry Sherry of the same place.

The result of the first ballot indicated that the right lay between Wirtzsch, the "push" candidate, and Camp, who represented the opposition. Glover received but a scattering support and withdrew when the vote was announced.

On the second ballot, Camp received 45 votes and Wirtzsch 43. Mr. Camp receiving the exact number of votes necessary for a nomination, and the nomination being made unanimous on motion of Mr. Wirtzsch.

It was a hard-fought battle, and was won through the superior generalship of the anti-Gage forces.

LOST BY IDELL. Much activity was unworked in the convention of the Seventy-first Assembly District. J. W. Kemp was chosen chairman and J. W. Burke, secretary. The district includes portions of the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth wards with 72 votes in the convention.

Charles Udell, P. A. Stanton and George Landers were placed in nomination. Stanton was elected on the first ballot. The vote stood: Stanton, 38; Sanders, 25; Udell, 15; necessary for choice, 37.

The total number of votes cast was 73, one more than the convention was entitled to under the apportionment. It was voted to throw out one of Stanton's votes, which left him the 37 necessary for nomination.

"PUSH" MAN WINS. In the Seventy-second Assembly District Convention, which was held yesterday afternoon at the close of the general session of the convention, H. S. G. McCartney, the candidate of the "push," was nominated over C. E. Washburn, by a vote of 34 to 24. Two precincts were cast.

All of the sixty-four delegates in that district were represented. The district includes eight precincts of the Fourth and four precincts of the Sixth Ward.

George Beebe was chairman of the convention, and Hartley Shaw acted as secretary. One ballot was taken, with the result indicated.

McCartney, whose name was presented as a candidate a few days ago, had been screened by Abe Edelman, the ostensible "push" candidate, but by arrangement, Edelman withdrew and McCartney was placed in the running at the last minute.

Charles McKimley withdrew in favor of Washburn, and the efforts of the machine were concentrated on the defeat of the latter candidate.

Washburn was placed in nomination by H. H. Rose, and McCartney was nominated by H. A. Barclay.

A close fight for the Assembly nomination in the Seventy-third District developed between J. P. Transue and R. Q. Wickham, with Frank T. Barnes a good third. Transue won on the second ballot. The Seventy-third district includes the Second and Third wards, with 102 votes in the convention.

Senator Fred Smith acted as chairman, and J. C. Platt, secretary. Dr. Lamb was named by W. L. Valentine and Carter by Edwin A. Meserve, Esq. Carter was sent to the Assembly two years ago, and his selection amounts to a renomination.

The Thirty-fourth Senatorial District Convention will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in the annex to the Pavilion, and other district conventions will be held as follows: Thirty-sixth Senatorial at 9 o'clock a. m. in the main convention hall; Seventeenth Assembly District, after adjournment this afternoon, in the main hall; First Supervisorial at noon in the annex and Third Supervisorial at noon in the main hall. Township conventions will be held at various places that will be made known to those interested.

THE CONVENTION ORGANIZED WITH JOHN JOHNSON as chairman and Carl Crank as secretary. Will A. Harris and E. P. Johnson, Jr., were named as tellers. George I. Cochran named Transue and a similar service for Wickham was done by George Lockwood. Clifton Astell placed Barnes in nomination.

The first ballot stood: Transue, 34; Wickham, 33; Barnes, 17; necessary to choice, 42.

Barnes's name was withdrawn before the second ballot was taken. Transue polled 45 votes to Wickham's 33, and the nomination was made unanimous.

"JIM" MEREDITH'S LOSS. Frederick W. Houser, a young lawyer from the First Ward, was nominated for Assemblyman in the convention of the Seventy-fourth Assembly District, over James Meredith of the Eighth Ward, by a vote of 48 to 46. The district convention met in the committee room at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The district includes the Ninth, Eleventh and Ninth wards in the city, Soldiers' Home, Hollywood

MORNING SESSION.

WHITE NOMINATED.

After struggling for twenty minutes to obtain order in the hall Chairman Lawler finally succeeded, and at 10:30 o'clock the morning session of the second day of the convention was opened.

There was the usual difficulty in clearing the floor of persons who were there without right, and the sergeants-at-arms came in for the customary roast for inefficiency. Had not the chairman taken direct charge of the work of eviction and of shutting off conversation the convention still would be hanging in the air.

After making several requests for non-candidates to leave the seats provided for office-seekers on the west side of the hall, the chairman made a close ocular canvass of the occupants thereof, and with invitations more emphatic than elegant many spectators were forced to retreat.

One of the most persistent sticklers was J. Marion Brooks. He failed to hear any of the orders until Chairman Lawler shouted at the top of his voice: "Col. Brooks, you surely haven't any right or showing as a candidate before a Republican convention."

And the colonel disappeared into the annex.

SHERIFF'S NOMINATIONS.

At 10:50 o'clock Chairman Lawler surrendered the gavel to Hon. Will A. Harris, who mounted the platform amid great applause, and announced immediately that nominations for Sheriff were in order.

Friends of candidates seemed loath to place their men before the convention and there was a long pause. Suddenly Walter H. Bacon came into the hall all out of breath, hurried to the stage and beseeched the support of George P. McLain. Oscar Lawler named H. H. Yonkin, explaining that his arrangement for making a nominating speech was made before his election as chairman. George P. McCullough was placed in the running by H. O. Voshburg, who became afflicted with stage fright in the middle of his address and mixed the candidates up by announcing that he was for McLain, quickly correcting himself, however.

McCullough, 42; total, 79; necessary to a choice, 35. Yonkin's name was withdrawn by Lawler.

Second ballot: White, 310; Hammett, 281; McLain, 115; Freeman, 92; McCullough, 17; total, 797; necessary to a choice, 334. Freeman's name was withdrawn.

Third ballot: White, 498; Hammett, 390; McLain, 46; McCullough, 14; total, 768; necessary to a choice, 384.

White nominated.

Jim Gray butted into the convention while the balloting for Sheriff was progressing, and began electorizing for one of the "push" candidates. Gray, who had defeated in his own precinct, wore a delegate's badge, which he had obtained, but this did not prevent his objection by the chairman, who the fraud was disclosed. Gray retreated from the floor in disgrace.

KEYES FOR CLERK.

AFTERNOON PROCEEDINGS.

A steady whir and hum of conversation preceded the afternoon session, which was called to order at 2:30 o'clock. There was a large crowd in the gallery. Several hundred ladies were present, and they displayed a lively interest in the proceedings.

More than half of the front rows in the balcony were filled by ladies, whose white shirt waists and picture hats formed a delicate edging for the worrying, bustling convention.

Owing to the difficulty experienced by delegates in the rear of the hall in following the proceedings, a futile attempt was made to clear the lobbies of all save candidates.

Nominations for the office of County Clerk were called for, and Motley H. Flint of the First Ward named Charles another ballot was taken. On the count, Houser won by 12 votes. Houser is a practicing attorney. Meredith, the defeated candidate, was formerly Coroner.

LAMB LOSER TO CARTER.

In the Seventy-fifth Assembly District, Henry C. Carter was nominated by 64 votes. Dr. W. A. Lamb, his opponent, received 37 votes. The district includes the Second and Third wards, with 102 votes in the convention.

Senator Fred Smith acted as chairman, and J. C. Platt, secretary. Dr. Lamb was named by W. L. Valentine and Carter by Edwin A. Meserve, Esq. Carter was sent to the Assembly two years ago, and his selection amounts to a renomination.

G. Keyes, H. W. Burke of Rivera, in a rattling speech, placed Sam Kutz in nomination. L. O. Gates of the Fifth Ward placed Lester L. Robinson before the convention in a speech which brought forth a great round of applause. "Andy" W. Francisco was nominated in an eloquent speech by John G. Moss. There was much suppressed excitement manifested when the ballot clerks began to call the long roll of precincts. O. W. Dunham kept the convention in a pleasant and active frame of mind by his humorous and spirited calls through the megaphones.

The vote on the first ballot stood:

Keyes	217
Robinson	217
Kuts	148
Francisco	132

Total vote 714

There being two more ballots noted, the count then there are delegates to the convention, a delay occurred in announcing the ballot.

Luther Brown moved that the result of the election be disregarded and the convention proceed to another ballot.

The motion carried. Delegates were cautioned to avoid "accidents" whereby two ballots were offered the tellers in place of one.

While it appeared from the figures that only two extra ballots were cast, more illegal votes were probably placed in the box. The highest vote cast during the spirited fight for nomination as Sheriff was 769, showing three delegates absent from the convention and not represented by proxies.

Like a modern revival of the confusion at the Tower of Babel was the scene on the convention floor as soon as it was announced that a second with megaphones did their best to keep the country delegates awake the unusual dissipation and late hours telling heavily on the out-of-town representatives. After an hour of balloting the clerks completed the count.

The vote on the first ballot stood:

Dow	235
Boatwick	234
Nichols	234
Total vote	703

Necessary to a choice 352

None of the candidates having received the requisite number of votes, another ballot was decreed. The vote was as follows:

Dow	230
Boatwick	229
Nichols	229
Total vote	688

Necessary to a choice 344

Chairman Lawler had just declared for another ballot, when W. P. Jeffries claimed the floor to withdraw E. E. Boatwick from the race. T. E. Nichols withdrew his own name, and on motion of Fred Allen, Dow was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

Edwin A. Meserve paid a glowing compliment to the American Club, and the Crown of the Valley, in placing Calvin Hartwell of Pasadena before the convention for County Recorder nominations for which office were next in order. Franklin F. Frost was named by Capt. C. W. Hyatt of the Fifth Ward, who read an exuberantly funny address, which kept the convention in a while somebody came round and told him what to do next.

Hartwell was nominated on the first ballot, and was the first man to receive that honor from the convention. The vote was:

Hartwell	432
Frost	178
Bailey	30
Stewart	77
Total vote	717

Necessary to a choice 358

Pasadena delegates were with enthusiasm. They stood upon chairs and yelled like Comanches. The air was filled with flying valots, hats and sundry personal belongings. Pasadena came to the convention to nominate Hartwell, and made no mistake about it. Immediately after the announcement of the vote, an adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning.

FRENCH WOMAN'S REVENGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Fearing her husband, from whom she had been separated for four years, was about to leave the city without paying to her several hundred dollars for alimony, she took a most unusual course.

ballot would be necessary. One long, loud yell arose from the floor, the name of the highest candidate at the time falling on the waves of sound in irregular cadence.

Delegates, the colored brother from the Seventh Ward, got excited and raged up and down the aisle, yelling like a caged lion. Ladies in the balcony felt the influence of the wild scenes on the floor. One pretty girl, charmingly gowned in blue, leaned far over the balcony rail in her excitement, smiles and frowns alternating on her pliant face as the cheering increased or waned for her favorite candidate.

About an hour was consumed in the voting. At 4:40 o'clock the result of the second ballot was announced. It stood:

Keyes	379
Robinson	238
Francisco	100
Kuts	89

Total vote 796

Necessary for choice 398

Burke of Rivers secured the floor, and withdrew Kuts' name with a flourish. Gates then took the floor, and in a short speech withdrew Lester Robinson from the race.

An old soldier in the front row jumped to his feet, and amid great applause moved that Keyes be declared the unanimous choice of the convention. The motion was carried with acclamation, in a snowstorm of white ballots. It was the wildest moment of the convention thus far.

A motion to take a recess until 7:30 o'clock carried, and the convention broke into district conventions.

EVENING NOMINATIONS.

FOR AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

A crowded house greeted the delegates at the evening session. The balcony was more than half filled with ladies, who remained until the adjournment. The floor presented an animated scene, candidates and their friends rushing hither and thither, in a mad rush for votes. Many hopes were destined to dashed.

Nominations for County Auditor were first on the programme, when the convention got down to business at 7:35 o'clock.

For this office T. E. Nichols was placed in nomination by J. W. McKinley. E. E. Boatwick was placed before the convention by W. P. Jeffries in a felicitous address, that won much applause. The speech of the evening was made by John G. Mott, who placed H. G. Dow in nomination. Mott swept the hall with his fiery eloquence, and was vociferously cheered.

Before the balloting, G. M. Giffen moved a reconsideration of the "motion" resolution, passed in the afternoon. In an arbitrary manner, the chair refused to consider the motion, until after the nomination for Auditor had been made.

The balloting was hurried. Two men

THE ANTICS OF THE DELEGATES.

NOW if this wouldn't take the starch out of a real wire-pulling politician!

He was a country delegate sitting just under the gallery at the county convention yesterday. At first sight it looked as though some one had hit him with a scrambled egg; any one with second sight could see that it was a big yellow political badge he was wearing. He was right in the thick of a political history and he "didn't give a goch darn" whether the pigs were fed or not.

After he got his delegates' badge on there was a growing coldness between him and the world. He handed out his street-car fare with such a freezing hauteur that the conductor walked past him on tip-toe. When the crowd got in his way on the sidewalk, he waved it aside.

They seated him next to a boy delegate who had weeded the lawn of the ward boss for his seat in the convention. He sat up very stiff and severe and every once in a while somebody came round and told him what to do next.

All at once he jumped and started in his skin at a sound that came from above and behind him. It sounded like the bleat of a billy goat, but finally resolved itself into accents and syllables. It said "Pa-a-a-a."

The delegate squirmed in his chair, but looked straight to the front. Everybody else turned round. An elderly woman was leaning far out from the balcony rail, her face flushed with triumph and pride. She was exclaiming over that scrambled egg.

"Pa-a-a-a."

He ducked suddenly, but did not turn around.

She leaned a little further and screamed "Pa-a-a-a."

He jerked angrily round in his chair and looked up at the beaming face.

"Pa-a-a, I'm comin' to dinner with you," he said.

Pa did not look overjoyed. His face fell.

"Hey," he said.

"I am comin' to dinner with you Pa," she shouted.

Pa meditated deeply and with sombre countenance; then his face lighted with something, he didn't care what. He said he had an "education."

RABBIT AND BROOKS.

CONVENTION EPISODES.

The convention opened in an atmosphere of uncertainty and uneasy misgivings. The chair felt the influence, and after a hasty look around, located the hoodoo in the person of Col. J. Marion Brooks, who was called up on the bleachers at the left.

He said: "I see people here who are neither delegates nor candidates. I want to know what Col. Brooks is doing on this floor. Col. Brooks has no business in a Republican convention."

The colored arose and slowly wended his way into the annex. He was followed by others.

With a voice suggesting Gabriel's promise, the chairman called Dunham to the left of the stage.

Dunham jarred the country delegates into life on the bleachers. Dunham also jarred the building. Dunham stood strenuous language, but he attained his end, and the country delegates kept on a trot all the time. The confused Dunham with omnipotence.

Sorrow settled down on the convention like a wet blanket over a baby. The delegates sat down on the "Judge" J. G. Rosier of Pasadena.

Rosier wanted to talk. When Rosier has that disposition, it requires the chairman's power of the fourth dimension to shut him off.

Rosier wanted to make Judge L. C. McInley a member of the Supreme bench or something.

Rosier failed.

The convention resumed business. The thirty-seventh precinct got into trouble early. The thirty-seventh precinct couldn't hear. It watched the chairman attentively, and even asked for a diagram and dates. The thirty-seventh precinct didn't care what the convention did, so it said, but it wanted to know when was coming off.

Chairman Lawler gratified the delegation and sent it a calendar.

with megaphones did their best to keep the country delegates awake the unusual dissipation and late hours telling heavily on the out-of-town representatives. After an hour of balloting the clerks completed the count.

The vote on the first ballot stood:

Dow	235
Boatwick	234
Nichols	234
Total vote	703

Necessary to a choice 352

None of the candidates having received the requisite number of votes, another ballot was decreed. The vote was as follows:

Dow	230
Boatwick	229
Nichols	229
Total vote	688

Necessary to a choice 344

Chairman Lawler had just declared for another ballot, when W. P. Jeffries claimed the floor to withdraw E. E. Boatwick from the race. T. E. Nichols withdrew his own name, and on motion of Fred Allen, Dow was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

Edwin A. Meserve paid a glowing compliment to the American Club, and the Crown of the Valley, in placing Calvin Hartwell of Pasadena before the convention for County Recorder nominations for which office were next in order. Franklin F. Frost was named by Capt. C. W. Hyatt of the Fifth Ward, who read an exuberantly funny address, which kept the convention in a while somebody came round and told him what to do next.

Hartwell was nominated on the first ballot, and was the first man to receive that honor from the convention. The vote was:

Hartwell	432
Frost	178
Bailey	30
Stewart	77
Total vote	717

Necessary to a choice 358

Pasadena delegates were with enthusiasm. They stood upon chairs and yelled like Comanches. The air was filled with flying valots, hats and sundry personal belongings. Pasadena came to the convention to nominate Hartwell, and made no mistake about it. Immediately after the announcement of the vote, an adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning.

ballot would be necessary. One long, loud yell arose from the floor, the name of the highest candidate at the time falling on the waves of sound in irregular cadence.

Delegates, the colored brother from the Seventh Ward, got excited and raged up and down the aisle, yelling like a caged lion. Ladies in the balcony felt the influence of the wild scenes on the floor. One pretty girl, charmingly gowned in blue, leaned far over the balcony rail in her excitement, smiles and frowns alternating on her pliant face as the cheering increased or waned for her favorite candidate.

About an hour was consumed in the voting. At 4:40 o'clock the result of the second ballot was announced. It stood:

Keyes	379
Robinson	238
Francisco	100
Kuts	89

Total vote 796

Necessary for choice 398

Burke of Rivers secured the floor, and withdrew Kuts' name with a flourish. Gates then took the floor, and in a short speech withdrew Lester Robinson from the race.

An old soldier in the front row jumped to his feet, and amid great applause moved that Keyes be declared the unanimous choice of the convention. The motion was carried with acclamation, in a snowstorm of white ballots. It was the wildest moment of the convention thus far.

A motion to take a recess until 7:30 o'clock carried, and the convention broke into district conventions.

THE ANTICS OF THE DELEGATES.

NOW if this wouldn't take the starch out of a real wire-pulling politician!

He was a country delegate sitting just under the gallery at the county convention yesterday. At first sight it looked as though some one had hit him with a scrambled egg; any one with second sight could see that it was a big yellow political badge he was wearing. He was right in the thick of a political history and he "didn't give a goch darn" whether the pigs were fed or not.

After he got his delegates' badge on there was a growing coldness between him and the world. He handed out his street-car fare with such a freezing hauteur that the conductor walked past him on tip-toe. When the crowd got in his way on the sidewalk, he waved it aside.

They seated him next to a boy delegate who had weeded the lawn of the ward boss for his seat in the convention. He sat up very stiff and severe and every once in a while somebody came round and told him what to do next.

All at once he jumped and started in his skin at a sound that came from above and behind him. It sounded like the bleat of a billy goat, but finally resolved itself into accents and syllables. It said "Pa-a-a-a."

The delegate squirmed in his chair, but looked straight to the front. Everybody else turned round. An elderly woman was leaning far out from the balcony rail, her face flushed with triumph and pride. She was exclaiming over that scrambled egg.

"Pa-a-a-a."

He ducked suddenly, but did not turn around.

She leaned a little further and screamed "Pa-a-a-a."

He jerked angrily round in his chair and looked up at the beaming face.

"Pa-a-a, I'm comin' to dinner with you," he said.

Pa did not look overjoyed. His face fell.

"Hey," he said.

"I am comin' to dinner with you Pa," she shouted.

Pa meditated deeply and with sombre countenance; then his face lighted with something, he didn't care what. He said he had an "education."

RABBIT AND BROOKS.

CONVENTION EPISODES.

The convention opened in an atmosphere of uncertainty and uneasy misgivings. The chair felt the influence, and after a hasty look around, located the hoodoo in the person of Col. J. Marion Brooks, who was called up on the bleachers at the left.

He said: "I see people here who are neither delegates nor candidates. I want to know what Col. Brooks is doing on this floor. Col. Brooks has no business in a Republican convention."

The colored arose and slowly wended his way into the annex. He was followed by others.

With a voice suggesting Gabriel's promise, the chairman called Dunham to the left of the stage.

Dunham jarred the country delegates into life on the bleachers. Dunham also jarred the building. Dunham stood strenuous language, but he attained his end, and the country delegates kept on a trot all the time. The confused Dunham with omnipotence.
